

Arrival of the Acadia. Five Days Later from England

IMPORTANT NEWS.

The Acadia, Capt. Stone, arrived at the port of Le Havre after a passage of fifteen days and one night. Her visitors were not half as many as those who came through to the French Saintes, New York.

The Acadia brought passengers, mostly to Liverpool, from Le Havre, 460, and from Hamburg, 120.

We are indebted to Mr. W. H. Bell for a copy of Wright & Smith's European Times, from which we have copied our foregoing.

LISBON.

The George Cross, the Home Secretary, on Tuesday night, the 21st, gave notice that he intended, the following day before any other business, to move for leave to introduce a bill for the better service of the Queen and Government of the United Kingdom.

This refers to the introduction of a bill to give the Queen a right to demand of the House of Commons, before the session begins, any bill or bills, more or less, as she may desire, for the better service of the Queen and Government of the United Kingdom.

The statement that M. Thiers had declined the candidature in the assembly, is Constitutional says erroneous.

The Duke and Duchess of Montpensier landed at St. Sebastian on the 2d inst. The refusal of Queen Victoria to grant them an audience, has created great excitement in Spain. War with Great Britain was seriously talked of for the moment.

Another decree imposes a tax on all salars received by functionaries of the state of every grade.

It is reported that M. Garnier, Pages is to retire from the office of Minister of the Finance, and that he is to be succeeded by M. Adèle Eould, the eminent banker.

This is an appointment which would give great satisfaction to the commercial community throughout France.

Paris was quite quiet, and the last accords from Lyons announces the complete restoration of tranquility in that city.

The elections for officers of the National Guard have, generally speaking, terminated in favor of the Republican candidates.

GERMANY.

The neutrals of Ireland are expectedly becoming more alarming and complicated, and the friends of order and existing institutions now apprehensive of a long and bloody conflict between the provincials and the populace of Ireland. It is estimated by all, that at no time in the entire history of Ireland did the agitators reach anything at all resembling a present point. The people are strong in their views throughout the country. The press is now in full blast. The National and United Irishmen are more prominent in the village of their parties, and now openly propagandist plan for a systematic rebellion by physical means.

The sale of the more violent of the revolutionary journals is enormous. On the 1st inst. less than 12,000 copies of the United Irishmen were sold at the publishing office in Dublin.

Extensive importations of arms have in the last few days from Birmingham two consignments amounting to forty thousand pounds, and all sold only to persons who can prove they are passable. The man in the service of Mexico has at present control of nearly all the arsenals of the country, and is rapidly consolidating his power.

The principal ports of entry are also said to be held.

Additional troops are being sent from England, and the most prominent and resolute are ordered to hold themselves in readiness for an immediate and severe assault. A large force has been sent to the front of the Chace of Cork.
